A taste of what's included

An Indian wedding is incomplete without serving up some sensational food to your honourable guests. The banquet will be a feast for the senses, each mouth-watering dish more delicious than the last.

We know that everything from the buttery naans to the creamy curries stand as a testament to the hospitality extended by the bride's parents to all the guests. That's why we take the time to talk through your plans for the day; making sure we understand your exact requirements.

There's no greater compliment for us than to hear guests talk about a wedding in terms of the food that they enjoyed. We will provide you with finger-licking food and drink that brings pleasure and delight to both you and your guests.

External caterers are more than welcome to use our facilities with dry hire options available.
